PROFILE

I am an eager and driven Computer Science undergraduate at LNCT University, with a genuine passion for technology and its ability to solve real-world problems. With experience in web development, Python, and Java, I thrive on creating intuitive, user-centered solutions. My curiosity extends to emerging fields like Web3 and cybersecurity, where I seek to blend innovation with practicality. As a natural leader, I've led diverse teams, always focusing on fostering collaboration and learning. I'm committed to growing both personally and professionally, driven by a constant desire to explore, create, and make a meaningful impact.
